

Christine McIvor

Christine spent 10 years building her career in Calgary, AB in Communications. Graduating with a Computer Applications and Multimedia degree, she always kept up on the newest trends in the industry from the Internet, to satellite, to fibre, to cellular, and now focuses most of her time teaching others how to build a business on the Internet.

Christine has a way with teaching individuals to think outside the box. Christine is a recognized leader and works with individuals in 15 different countries including Canada and the United States.

Understanding the art of duplication in Network Marketing is the key to a successful business. This is why Christine recently partnered with a seven-figure income earner who has been studying the art of duplication and copying his success. She has also been inspired by many people including Bob Proctor, Napoleon Hill, and Zig Ziglar to name a few.

Along with working from home, Christine enjoys traveling (preferably some place warm), baseball, hockey, golf, and scrapbooking.

Her passion is to travel the world and to celebrate each day with those around her.

“Christine McIvor did not recruit me! I found her online over a year ago and was very impressed with her website initially. I had no idea she was a high-ranking leader in Canada! I established a relationship with her through countless emails and she generously offered me her training site, newsletter, vouchers and so much more to help my business! She created all of this herself and does more for her affiliates than the company itself! She thinks out of the box for solutions, made many step-by-step videos for those who are not tech savvy, hosts conference calls, and keeps in touch with her fellow affiliates who follow her because they trust her expertise! In addition, when something new comes along (i.e. Twitter, new system) she is on top of it, becomes an expert and generously shares her knowledge! Her blogs are rich in content and full of value! She is a leader among leaders in the world of Internet Marketing, and I believe very well respected! Especially by me!” Janice Wells
